Raymond James will administer the account and together with your wealth manager will perform ongoing management to ensure that the required Loan to Value ratio and your credit limit are not breached. Important information

Q: Are there any restrictions to the usage of the Loan Account?

A: Loans are not eligible for consolidation of debts (i.e. loans and credit cards) or to meet ongoing day-to-day expenditure (i.e. mortgage payment and utility bills). Property related loans (i.e. purchase of a house) are not allowable, this also relates to loans to 3rd parties (i.e. your children) for the purpose of a property related loan (i.e. purchase of a house). This also covers the purchase of land regardless of whether any property will ever be built (i.e. woodland).

We will require credit information on your current finances before a loan can be agreed. This will include gross annual income against current debt ratios. When completing the form please ensure all data is up to date and includes all expenses. Restated figures will not be accepted once a loan has been declined.

Q: When will there be a margin call or breach notification?

A: A margin call or breach notification can be made in any one of the following instances:

- If your Loan Account breaches the LTV ratio of 65%
- If the value of eligible securities falls below £100,000
- If the portfolio does not have the minimum number of eligible securities required which is three
- If the agreed credit limit has been exceeded

Q: Will I be alerted before a margin call is made?

A: Yes. You will be notified in the first instance via e-mail when the portfolio approaches its margin value or if there are any changes on the portfolio that may cause a margin call or other breach. If the account breaches its limits and a margin call is made, we typically allow you up to 3 business days to correct the account, except where circumstances or amount cause us to act sooner. If the account is not corrected within the designated time, we will take the necessary actions to correct the account. This may involve selling stock to close the Loan Account and a £600 dealing fine.

Q: In what order will we sell from the portfolio if a margin call is made and the account is not corrected within the designated time?

A: We will ensure that we sell from the GIA rather than the ISA where possible. However, we will sell out of any stock that we deem appropriate with the view to correct the Loan Account. Trade charges will be charged to the client's GIA or ISA, dependent upon which account held the stock.

Q: Can I see a worked example?

A: Yes. Worked Example of market movements over Loan Account:

		If the market falls 30%:
Client Portfolio	£300,000	Client Portfolio	£210,000
Eligible Securities	£200,000	Eligible Securities	£140,000
Loan advanced	£100,000	Loan advanced	£100,000
LTV on eligible securities	50%	LTV on eligible securities	71%

Action to be taken: The client would have breached the requirement to maintain a LTV less than 65% and as such would either have to sell ineligible securities and buy eligible securities or sell ineligible securities and repay part of the loan.

1. Client sells £40,000 ineligible securities and buys £40,000 eligible securities:		2. Client sells £20,000 ineligible securities and repays part of the loan:
Client Portfolio	£210,000	Client Portfolio	£190,000
Eligible Securities	£180,000	Eligible Securities	£180,000
Loan advanced	£100,000	Loan advanced	£80,000
LTV on eligible securities	56%	LTV on eligible securities	44%

Loan is back in the acceptable zone, but would require continued monitoring as over 50%.

Loan is back in the acceptable zone.

Important Risk Information: Before borrowing money through your Raymond James Loan Account please consult with your wealth manager regarding any questions or concerns you may have. The securities and assets held by Pershing on your behalf are used as security for the credit made available to you. If the securities held by Pershing for you decline in value, so does the value of the security supporting your loan. In such circumstances, we can take action. For example, we can call on you to provide further eligible securities or request that you make a payment into your Loan Account. We may also sell or realise assets that they hold on your behalf in order to reduce the balance and you are not entitled to choose which securities or assets are realised or sold.
